Notes:

- Treatment of severe manifestations of some diseases is NCB commissioned e.g. Severe and / or fistulating Crohn's. Lanreotide / octreotide are CCG commissioned for non-cancer uses
- CCGs commission for all patients with autoimmune rheumatic diseases or rare arthropathies where the diagnosis is already established and the manifestations are well-controlled by conventional management and the patient and the rheumatologist are satisfied with treatment response and progress of the disease.
- Recommendations for cancer chemotherapy are to be excluded from 1/4/13. However, non-chemotherapy indications for the following will be CCG commissioned if use relates to a non-NHSE service: cladribine, lenalidomide,
- Drugs for which NHS England is the Commissioner are not necessarily routinely commissioned.
- Many drugs for which NHS England is the Commissioner are only commissioned by NHSE when from Specialist Centres; funding for requests outside of specialist centres would fall to CCGs.

For information: [reference A Strategic Framework for Intestinal Failure and Home Parenteral Nutrition Services for Adults in England. National Commissioning Group for Highly Specialised Services April 2008]

Type I – this type of Intestinal Failure is short-term, self limiting and often peri-operative in nature. Type I Intestinal Failure is common and these patients are managed successfully in a multitude of healthcare settings, especially surgical wards, including all units which perform major, particularly abdominal surgery. Some patients on high dependency units (HDU) and intensive care units (ICU) will also fall into this category.

Type II – Type II IF occurs in metabolically unstable patients in hospital and requires prolonged parenteral nutrition over periods of weeks or months. It is often associated with sepsis, and may be associated with renal impairment. These patients often need the facilities of an Intensive Care or High Dependency Unit for some or much of their stay in hospital. This type of IF is rarer and needs to be managed by a multi-professional specialist intestinal failure team. Effective management of Type II IF can reduce the likelihood of the development of Type III Intestinal Failure.

Type III – Type III is a chronic condition requiring long term parenteral feeding. The patient is characteristically metabolically stable but cannot maintain his or her nutrition adequately by absorbing food or nutrients via the intestinal tract. These are, in the main, the group of patients for which Home Parenteral Nutrition (HPN) is indicated.
